

ASBESTOS AWARENESS

Training Courses

Asbestos was widely used within building and industrial products for many years and although the use of the different variants was banned during the 1980's and 90's, it's legacy still presents a significant hazard to workers who come into inadvertent contact with it. This training course provides a basic awareness, covering some key areas, as follows...

- What is Asbestos (Types and Properties)
- History (Origins, Production and Usage)
- Effects of Asbestos on Health
- Asbestos Related Diseases
- The Control of Asbestos Regulations 2012
- Where can you find asbestos?
- Uses for Asbestos
- Personal Protective Equipment / Respiratory Protective Equipment
- Avoiding Risk
- Emergency Procedures

By the end of the course delegates will be able to:

- Name the 3 main types of asbestos
- List the diseases caused by exposure to asbestos and understand the increased risk for smokers
- List some of the likely uses and locations for asbestos products in buildings
- Know how to avoid the risks from asbestos
- Explain the general emergency procedures should asbestos be discovered or disturbed.

All delegates receive handout information and upon successful completion of the course are awarded an Admac certificate of training.
